I'm an expert in breakthrough performance, showing leaders, sales people, and teams how to grow stronger through challenge.

If it's outdoors, you can probably find Ari doing it, embracing the unknown through scuba diving, hiking, and more. That same willingness to chase the impossible shows up everywhere in Ari's life, from producing a 2-hour movie in 2 weeks, to bringing a pet frog "back to life" as a kid, and refusing to let circumstances define limits.

This stubborn will to succeed, forged through real adversity, shapes Ari's grit and resilience. The death of a teacher as a child set off a hard path. High school dropout. Teen drug use. Police trouble. Years later, he lost his family's belongings in a fire. These experiences taught him that growing stronger through setbacks isn't something you're born with; it's a skill you build under pressure.

Most people break under pressure.
The best grow stronger through it.
